Free range poultry enjoy all the health advantages of fresh air, sunlight and natural foraging. Poultry are like other bird species in that they are intelligent and respond well to mental stimulation. Avigrain poultry blends are designed to provide the base protein and energy requirements for free range poultry or a natural grain feed to supplement pellet diets as well as mental stimulation through access to a wide range of seeds and grains.

To have a happy flock we need to learn about the dietary and health needs of our chickens. Avigrain blends play their part in an overall health and well-being plan. By feeding a wide range of grains, green feeds and grits with vitamin and mineral supplements, by giving birds access to natural foraging, sunlight and most importantly clean, fresh water, you will enjoy the experience of owning a happy flock of birds and the great tasting eggs that come with them.
